Oregon OSHA – Proposed Change With Federal OSHA Correction to Vehicle-Mounted Elevating and Rotating Work Platforms in General Industry

This rulemaking is to keep Oregon OSHA in harmony with recent changes to federal OSHA's standards.

Federal OSHA published, in the July 1, 2014 Federal Register, a notice of a typographical error to 1910.67 (Vehicle-mounted Elevated and Rotating Work Platforms).

Currently under 1910.67(c)(5) Welding standard, the rule references the "Automotive" Welding Society; however, the correct title to the national consensus standard organization referenced is "American" Welding Society. This proposed rulemaking corrects the typographical error.

Oregon OSHA proposes to make this correction to 1910.67(c)(5), in Division 2/F.

When does this happen: Adoption will be end of December 2014

Fiscal and Economic Impact:

The proposed typographical rule change will have no fiscal or economic impact to private Oregon employers.

Statement of Cost of Compliance:

1. Impact on state agencies, units of local government and the public (ORS 183.335(2)(b)(E)):

The proposed rule change only affects Oregon OSHA's own costs with administering the rule and is limited to the rulemaking itself. All state agencies as well as units of local government are affected in the sense that they are employers under the Oregon Safe Employment Act.

2. Cost of compliance effect on small business (ORS 183.336):

a. Estimate the number of small businesses and types of business and industries with small businesses subject to the rule:

Additional compliance to current standards not required.

b. Projected reporting, recordkeeping and other administrative activities required for compliance, including costs of professional services:

Additional compliance to current standards not required.

c. Equipment, supplies, labor and increased administration required for compliance:

Additional compliance to current standards not required.

How were small businesses involved in the development of this rule?

The typographical correction did not warrant small business involvement.

Administrative Rule Advisory Committee consulted? No.

If not, why?

No, the nature of this rulemaking did not warrant the need of an advisory committee.
