

Congratulations on your recent completion of the training module "Foundations of Safety Leadership: Building a Safety Culture". This represents an investment by you and your organization to improve your organization's safety culture. The tools you have used today will also help you move forward as you continue to grow as a leader in safety and in general. The return on that investment will be measured not only by what you learned, but how you apply that learning when you return to the workplace and how well you coach those around you.

Please take a few minutes to provide your feedback on what you learned and how it will be beneficial. Also, utilizing the resources and tools provided, complete the attached commitment plan. As you fill out this commitment think specifically what you can do/improve in your performance based on what you learned in the class.

Keep one copy for yourself and give one to your supervisor and schedule time to discuss your goals with them.

Safety starts with you!
